

Starvation Kills 2,538 Captive Allies In Year

TOKYO (AP)—A returned prisoner who said he had access to Communist medical records in North Korea today said he had learned of 2,538 captive Allies who died of starvation and disease in less than a year.

Sgt. James F. Daniel, Alameda, Calif., said 931 Allies died of malnutrition and lack of medical care in 2½ months at the now infamous "Death Valley."

Deaths by Hundreds
That was the prisoner name for a sort of way station between Kunu and the far North Korean prison camps at Pyoktong.

The 931 deaths came between Dec. 26, 1950, and March 14, 1951, Daniel said.

Later, 1,607 Allied captives died at Pyoktong's Camp No. 5 on the Yalu River, Daniel said, of "just starvation and disease."

That was during the first seven months of 1951.

Daniel, a medic, said he had access to Communist medical records because he was helping care for sick and wounded at Death Valley and later at Pyoktong.

Ambulances Shot Up

Daniel, former member of the U. S. 2nd Division, was captured at Kunu Dec. 1, 1950 after he was wounded in the left shoulder.

He said he and 200 men, who were with 71 wounded were captured in a Communist road block.

Daniel said the 71 wounded were being carried in four ambulances, two six-by-sixes and a weapons carrier. The Chinese "shot-up" these vehicles at night, Daniel said. The Reds might not have known the vehicles carried wounded, he added.

The sergeant said the "able-200 Americans fought until they ran out of ammunition and then surrendered "to save the wounded."

Tax Cuts Likely To Be Delayed By Lopsided Budget

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—President

Eisenhower's statement that his administration sees no way to balance the budget for the next fiscal year appeared likely today to delay indefinitely any fresh tax cuts.

Eisenhower told a White House news conference yesterday it will be impossible to bring expenditures completely in line with revenue. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said Congress may have to approve new appropriations without any final spending estimates for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

To Sen. George (D-Ga.), an old hand at fiscal matters, this spelled delay and possible no tax reductions at all beyond the already scheduled death of the excess profits levy on July 1 and a 10 percent decline in individual income taxes set for next Jan. 1.

Commenting on the president's statement, George said: "I don't see how it leaves any leeway for a tax reduction."

Some House leaders, however, clung to a hope they will pass a tax cut this year, although they agreed with the President that tax reductions should not be considered until a balanced budget is in sight.

Republican leader Halleck (Ind.) said in an interview, "I still wouldn't rule out any chance of a tax reduction. I don't think there will be any big fight with the administration but we may cut appropriations even below the administration requests."

And House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass.) said:

"I'm still hopeful we can make the appropriation cuts that will justify a tax reduction."

Still Hopeful

Eisenhower declined to speculate on possible additional tax reductions.

Senate Revision Of Labor Act Blasted By CIO

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—Sen.

Taft today expressed "agreement in principle" with a proposal to exempt the building trades unions and local public utilities from the Taft-Hartley labor act.

He said he could not see how the federal government had any right to settle a local street car strike in Milwaukee, for instance.

"I can't see what a streetcar railway in Milwaukee has to do with interstate commerce," Taft told newsmen.

Lined Up With Lewis

But the CIO today blasted the proposal, advanced by chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) of the Senate Labor Committee.

Arthur J. Goldberg, CIO general counsel, said Smith's amendment does not "meet the standards of fairness and justice in our labor relations laws repeatedly promised by President Eisenhower."

He said it would open the door to compulsory arbitration and would "revalidate the compulsory arbitration statutes enacted in several states purporting to deal with public utility disputes . . . which have been declared invalid by the Supreme Court."

Thus the CIO lined up with John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, in strong disagreement with the Smith amendment. Lewis said the proposal has "a bad smell."

Goldberg registered his protest in a letter to Smith. The Senate committee yesterday ended six weeks of public hearings on various proposals to amend the present law.

Taft said he had arranged with

Allies Know Reds Are Cheating; Still Hold 375 Disabled

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies warned the Reds bluntly today that failure to hand over 375 more disabled Allied soldiers "we know you are holding" leaves "no choice but to question your sincerity" in full truce talks.

As liaison officers accused the Communists of a holdout in the sick and wounded exchange, truce negotiators got nowhere in trying to choose a neutral nation as caretaker for some 48,000 able-bodied Red captives who refuse to go home.

Won't Name Neutral

The U. N. Command today suggested Sweden. The Reds again refused to name any country, despite Allied prodding. The Communists already had rejected Switzerland, previously nominated by the U. N.

In the liaison meeting, the Reds denied the holdout accusation, calling it "groundless" and "wilful slander" not worth refuting. They admit holding some sick and wounded Allies, but said these are too ill to send home.

Many of the 684 Allied captives released last week told of disabled comrades still in stockades of North Korea.

UN Keeps Agreement

The U. N. Command used these figures to pinpoint at least 234 non-Koreans—many of them undoubtedly Americans—and 141 Koreans left behind in "only a part of your announced . . . camps."

The Allies obviously were convinced the Reds hold even more than the 375.

After returning 684 Allied disabled, including 149 Americans, the Reds said April 26 that was all. They originally promised 605.

Rear Adm. John C. Daniel, chief liaison officer, told the Reds the Allies are returning all eligible Communists, and the Allies expect the Communists to do the same.

Saturday's return of 500 North Koreans will make a total of about 6,500 disabled Reds sent back since the exchange began April. The U. N. Command originally pledged 5,800.

Although it was not announced whether this would be the last shipment, the Allies indicated there are only a few Reds left for return.

After a 37-minute session, the liaison officers recessed until another meeting is requested by either side.

The meeting of the full truce delegations lasted only 35 minutes and was recessed until 11 a. m. Saturday (9 p. m. Friday, Est.).

Rancher Guilty In Witch Killing

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An Arizona rancher was convicted of second degree murder by a jury last night for killing a woman he claimed had practiced witchcraft.

Joe S. Chavez, 45, faces a penalty of 10 years to life in prison. Chavez was accused of shooting Mrs. Maria Estrella Miranda, 41, in her home near the tiny Yaqui Indian village of Guadalupe, south of Phoenix, last Sept. 12.

The week-long trial brought out a strange tale of belief in witchcraft by many of Mrs. Miranda's neighbors, and equally strong denials from a few friends.

A confession Chavez purportedly signed and introduced by the prosecution, quoted Chavez as saying he had shot the woman because she placed a curse on his wife and caused her to go blind. Six women who lived near the Miranda home testified she was a witch who could cast evil spells on those she disliked.

County, Schools Will Split Tax Funds Equally

The Delta County Tax Allocation Board last night agreed on a tentative tax allocation which would give 7.5 mills to the schools and 7.5 mills to the county out of the 15 mills which state law allows the county to tax its property owners.

Final allocation will be made when the board meets Wednesday, May 6 in the county courthouse at 7:30 p. m., Helmer J. Skogquist of Gladstone, Board chairman, said.

The 7.5 figure for schools is for Gladstone and Escanaba schools. The May 6 meeting will also see a tentative allocation made for township schools. In townships, the 7.5 mills must be divided between the township schools and the township board, members of the Tax Allocation Board explained, though it has become the custom for the townships to allow the entire amount to go to the schools, they said.

Pleas For Schools

The evening was marked by the usual clashes of interest between schools and county. Gust Peterson, who represents Escanaba schools on the Board, described needs of the schools.

"Most of the schools' budget goes in salaries," he said, and "the salary schedule is not as high as we would like it." He declared salaries paid here are not as high as in many cities of Escanaba's size.

He said the schools have a hard time getting beginning teachers at $3,000, which is the figure at which Escanaba now starts teachers off. In cutting down the budget, he said, it would be impossible to do anything with salaries.

Peterson said Escanaba brings teachers here takes them through the schools and does a job of salesmanship if necessary to get teachers at the salary Escanaba can afford to pay.

Seek Low Class Roads

Ambition is to keep the class load as close to 25 as possible, he declared, but said average class load is now around 28.

Ann Villeneuve, county treasurer and a member of the Board, moved the allocation be eight mills to the county and seven to the schools. Members voted the motion down.

Peterson then proposed a compromise split, 7.6 mills to the schools and 7.4 to the county, saying he had agreed with school officials "to come home with nothing less than eight, anyway."

Harold Gustafson, chairman of Delta County Board of Supervisors, asked permission to address the Tax Board.

"We have two units with very decided and important things to do," Gustafson said. He declared the Board of Supervisors had brought county property valuation up as high as possible, thus doing its part to meet budget problems.

Pleas For County

"We at the county level have only one source of revenue," the county chairman declared. The county has several revenues from which to draw, he said.

Gustafson said it was his belief that if there's a school problem, it's up to the school district to remedy it, and noted that several county school districts have done so this year. Later he explained he meant such townships as Wells, Brampton, Maple Ridge, Escanaba Township and Garden.

The most equal split would be eight mills for the county, seven for the schools, Gustafson said. There was even some support among educators for this, he said, saying one noted educator in the county had expressed the opinion to him that there was no reason the county should get the lesser

Tired But Happy Press Carriers Return From 2-Day Trip To Chicago

Tired but happy—that's the state of mind of 27 Daily Press carriers who returned from Chicago early Thursday.

"We didn't sleep much, but oh how we loved it," was the theme of their remarks.

The boys won the trip by selling Daily Press subscriptions, and magazine subscriptions, in a recent circulation drive. Duncan Cameron and George Coan of the Daily Press circulation department chaperoned the trip.

Tony Scheriff, 14, 1020 Ninth Ave. S. slept about a half hour on the trip down, he said. The boys left Escanaba by Greyhound bus Monday night.

"I didn't seem to be very tired the next morning," young Scheriff said.

Visited Science Museum As for Bob Gasman, 15, 427 S. Seventh St., "I didn't get any sleep" going down of coming back," said he. Arriving home Thursday morning he went to school all day and delivered his newspapers Thursday afternoon before going home to his bed.

With only one night of sleep to sustain him, Tuesday at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, where the boys slept two to a twin-bedded room, Gasman still had plenty of bubble left. He liked the Museum of Science and Industry. "If I could only spend enough time there..." he said. They guide told them, if they looked nine seconds at every object in the museum, it would take them nine days to tour it. They were there an hour and a half.

They went to the airport, and watched the big airliners land and take off. He noticed the kitchen on the airplane they went through. They can feed 60 people a meal, they were told, and the kitchen in which this is prepared is infinitesimal in detail of equipment.

At the airport they were given stickers to put on their luggage, Tony Scheriff said.

Ate in Chinese Restaurant Mike Peltier, 13, 529 S. Ninth St. went to bed Thursday morning right after he got home, and slept until 3 in the afternoon. When Gasman mentioned the troupe had dinner in a Chinese restaurant in Chinatown, Peltier made a great face.

"What didn't you like about it?" asked a reporter.

"The taste," he declared in all innocence.

portion at all times.

Gustafson declared that 7.4 for the county was even less than last year. If the county does not get more, he said, "we will continually be operating in the red, and it will mean either cut out or cut down (county services)."

Peterson moved the split be 7.5 schools, 7.5 county and the motion passed 4-2. Voting no were Mrs. Villeneuve and Guy Knutson.

Three members of the board are on it by virtue of offices they hold. Mrs. Villeneuve is county treasurer and Knutson is chairman of the County Board of Supervisors' finance committee. Haggle Quarstrom is county superintendent of schools.

The judge of probate appoints the other three Tax Board members, who are Skogquist, Peterson, and Edward Cox, Escanaba. William E. Butler is clerk of the board.

In talk after the meeting, various persons expressed the opinion that if the county were only allowed to tax 20 mills many of the problems now plaguing both county and schools would end.

Among the eight or ten interested parties who attended the meeting were John Lemmer, superintendent of Escanaba public schools, and Charles Follo, supervisor of the Upper Peninsula branch of the University of Michigan extension service.

The final night they had a meal he really liked, said Peltier—chicken in a Chinese restaurant "but not in the Chinese district," he added emphatically.

Mike Rooney, 15, 309 S. Sixth St. said the "most interesting" thing he saw was the Field Museum, but the "most exciting" was the wrestling match the boys went to Wednesday night.

"It was kind of gruesome," he said. "A lot of throwing around and tearing hair." He made a few bets with his buddies but didn't do too hot. "I lost four bets and had two ties," he said as he surveyed his dismal estate.

When Mike got home Thursday he slept all morning but in the afternoon took himself to school. He too figured his bus sleep at about a half hour, and said he got about six hours in the Conrad Hilton.

Duncan Cameron, one of the two chaperones, summed up the trip one way. "If just one person had told us how well-behaved the boys were I wouldn't have thought anything of it," Cameron said. "But everywhere we went so many people told us what a fine group of boys they were. I was very proud of the way they behaved."

But the final word on the trip to Chicago belonged to Tony Scheriff, when a reporter asked him if there was any particular part of the trip he enjoyed most. "I think it was all nice," said Tony.

New Buildings Total Up Here

The number of building permits granted by the city of Escanaba and the estimated value of the proposed construction so far this year is considerably above the totals for the same period a year ago, it was reported today by Charles Schmidt, Escanaba city assessor.

This year to May 1 there were 33 building permits granted, 23 of which were granted in April, compared to a total of 23 to May 1 last year.

Total estimated value of proposed new construction for which the city granted permits this year to May 1 is $169,800 compared to a total of $51,152 total for the same period last year.

The new construction this spring includes a warehouse building on Stephenson Avenue attached to the south wall of the present Harnischfeger welder plant, which is a part of the current Harnischfeger Corporation expansion here. Also listed is the work the city is doing in renovating the old Solar building on First Ave. S. as a location for the removal of Northern Motor Rebuilders.

Permits issued by the city for new construction in April included the following:

Thirteen dwellings, six detached garages, and nine repair and alterations jobs.

Bethany Lutheran Church's $30,000 Organ Is Received

A large truck van carrying Bethany Lutheran Church's new $30,000 organ today arrived in Escanaba and the work of installing the instrument is to be started next week.

The Rev. Gustav Lund, pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church, said the three manual Moller pipe organ will replace a pipe organ the church has used for nearly 60 years. The old organ served in the church prior to construction of the present Bethany Lutheran Church at First Ave. S. and 11th St.

Memorial gifts and contributions will finance the cost of the new organ, to be known as the church's memorial organ.

The old organ was played for the last time on Easter Sunday. It was then removed and preparations made for the installation of the new instrument, which will be completed in about two or three weeks.

Fears Of Peace Depression Amount To A Fear Of Peace

PEACE is no peril. So spoke Secretary of Treasury Humphrey in trying to allay fears that depression is the inescapable alternative to war—or cold war.

The reassurance was timely. Both at home and abroad, there has been too much fear-mongering over the prospect that a serious slackening of tension would plunge America and the free world into a pit.

Another fresh expression of confidence in the U. S. economy came the other day from the nation's big motor-makers in Detroit. Wade Jones, in a dispatch for NEA Service aimed at measuring the possible impact of peace on the automobile capital, reports the top firms are expecting civilian production needs to offset any likely curtailment in defense output.

Worries over readjustment are natural, but to compound these into monumental fears is to reveal either a neurotic outlook toward the world or a weird sense of values.

The logic of this attitude is this: We do not dare slack off our war and defense efforts, for they are maintaining the free world's economy at its present high level.

Ford River Lions Seek Village History

THE historical essay contest sponsored by the Ford River Lions Club provides an excellent opportunity for former residents and friends of the community to assist in the compilation of an authentic history of Ford River.

It is the plan of the Ford River reunion committee to coordinate the information received in the various historical themes submitted in this contest and to compile the data into an official history of the village. So anyone with any knowledge of historical events in Ford River is invited and urged to submit this information in a letter addressed to President Phil Miron of the Ford River Lions Club.

Many of the present generation probably do not realize that Ford River was once quite a busy community, with industry and activity far greater than is evidenced in the village today.

The Ford River Lions Club is arranging a homecoming reunion for June 27 and 28 and it promises to be quite a celebration.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

aficionado—R. F. G., Waterbury, Conn.

—The word aficionado is Spanish and means amateur or, more exactly, one who is especially keen over a given sport; a fan. The pronunciation has not been Anglicized and is, therefore, ah-FEE-thyoh-NAH-tho, first th as in thin, second th as in this.

catercornered—"Please give me the correct spelling of the phrase cat a corner or kitty corner. Is it just an expression I have heard for years?"—B. P. C., Reno, Nev.

We have all heard it for years, frequently as yo uhav first indicated, but often jocularly as the second. But the correct spelling is catercornered, which, in America, we pronounce "CAT-uh-COR-nurd," but in England is often pronounced "KAY-tur-COR-nurd." It means diagonally. The colloquial word is composed of the two words cater (from French quatre, four), to place diagonally, and cornered.

minuscule—W. S. F., Oklahoma City—The word you seek is minuscule, not miniscule. The pronunciation is mi-NUS-cu-lee, and it comes from Latin minusculus, smaller. The term now means any very small thing, but was first employed to describe the kind of small letters developed by medieval monks in place of the capital letters formerly used.

The Doctor Says . . . Rh Negatives Should Avoid Rh Positive Transfusions

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Parents and prospective parents quite often become excited when they hear something about a mysterious substance in the blood known as the Rh factor.

The subject is a complicated one, but briefly, the Rh factor is a substance of obscure nature which about 87 out of 100 of us have. These persons have Rh positive blood, while the 13 per cent who do not have an Rh factor are said to have Rh negative blood. These two kinds of blood do not always act favorably on each other.

When a person with Rh negative blood is sensitive to Rh positive blood, a severe reaction with chills and fever can develop from a blood transfusion of Rh positive blood. Also, if an "Rh negative" mother (but only one who is sensitive to Rh positive blood) carries an Rh positive child, the child may have the disease known as erythroblastosis fetalis. Such an infant becomes jaundiced and seriously ill.

Men or women who are Rh positive have little to worry about. However, if an Rh negative man were given several Rh positive blood transfusions he might get undesirable reactions.

An Rh negative woman can become sensitive to Rh positive blood in one of two ways: by blood transfusion of Rh positive blood or by carrying a child with Rh positive blood.

positive blood. The first can be avoided by not giving Rh positive blood transfusions to an Rh negative person.

If both parents have Rh negative blood, the child will always be Rh negative and no trouble will come. If the father has Rh positive and the mother Rh negative blood the child may be Rh positive and therefore react badly with the mother.

However, the first child (and often later ones) of an Rh negative mother married to an Rh positive man will almost always be healthy, unless the mother has received Rh positive blood transfusions previously. These blood transfusions should be watched.

TAKE PROPER MEASURES

Only one woman in from 25 to 50 with Rh negative blood who has an Rh positive husband becomes sensitive to the Rh factor and gives birth to a baby with erythroblastosis. Even if this should occur, proper measures in anticipation and transfusions of blood will save the lives of a large proportion of such infants.

Here is a summary of the situation: Both parents Rh negative—nothing to worry about; both parents Rh positive—nothing to worry about; father Rh negative, mother Rh positive—nothing to worry about; father Rh positive, mother Rh negative—occasional difficulty.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Behind all the furor over the dismissal of Dr. Allen V. Astin as head of the Bureau of Standards are some interesting maneuvers hitherto unknown to the public.

These quiet tactics center around the Bureau's vital development work on fuses for bombs, shells and guided missiles. For years several large corporations have been anxious to take over the Bureau's fuse program. Naturally if a private company gets in on the ground floor in designing fuses, it would be in the best position to get subsequent multimillion-dollar fuse-production contracts.

As far back as March 2, little more than a month after Sinclair Weeks was sworn in as Secretary of Commerce and as boss of the Bureau of Standards, Moorhead Patterson, president of the American Machine and Foundry Co., paid a visit to the Bureau of Standards. As head of the huge A. M. & F. Co., and a good friend of Secretary Weeks, Mr. Patterson was given a warm reception.

"I understand," said Patterson, "that this whole research and development program on fuses will soon be taken away from the Bureau. I want you all to know my company will be happy to pick up the pieces. In addition," he told the startled scientists, "I'm ready to move the whole operation, including personnel, to my Boston plant."

This was well before Sinclair Weeks fired Dr. Astin.

It was also the first inkling the scientists had that the nation's vital fuse program was to be put on the auction block. In fact, they were skeptical about Patterson's prediction and went ahead with their work. Patterson, however, was so sure of his information that, before leaving Washington, he made attractive financial offers to several key scientists.

PENS AND FUSES

The following week, Fred K. Powell, Jr., vice president of American Machine and Foundry, arrived in Washington. Powell went so far as to tell Pentagon and Commerce Department officials that his company was ready to absorb the whole fuse program "on a moment's notice."

Then, on March 25, Secretary Weeks wrote a confidential letter to defense boss Charlie Wilson urging the Pentagon to remove the fuse program from Weeks' own Bureau of Standards. Weeks' letter to Wilson was disguised in official double-talk, but its meaning was clear. He wrote:

"I bring this (fuse program) to your attention in case you wish to delegate someone to check these expenditures and, perhaps, suggest an examination and even a re-evaluation of the research program."

At first this got no favorable response from the Defense Department. Armed services knew the amazing job the Bureau of Standards had done on fuses. When others failed, Bureau scientists had developed the proximity fuse during World War II, the fuse which explodes when it approaches its target, and which causes the amazing guided missile to steer a course toward its target.

In fact, Army-Navy experts wrote a confidential memo to Secretary of Defense Wilson warning against danger to the guided-missile program if Dr. Astin was not reinstated.

Later, however, Secretary of Commerce Weeks got his way. His colleague, Secretary of Defense Wilson, has now issued instructions to curtail further military research funds for the Bureau of Standards. Note: Assistant Secretary of Commerce Sheaffer, the fountain-pen manufacturer, told friends that one of the first things he would do in Washington was shake up the Bureau of Standards. He claimed they had been unfair in testing one of his pens.

Detroit Traffic Court Goes On TV To Cut Auto Deaths

ACTUAL TRAFFIC CASES are re-enacted for the TV camera in Detroit's traffic court, where Judge John D. Watts presides over a unique video program aimed at cutting auto accidents

By WADE JONES

NEA Staff Correspondent

DETROIT (NEA)—At 6:30 every Tuesday evening swarms of Detroiters who've spent the day putting cars together sit goggle-eyed before their television sets watching how cars get torn apart. The program has the zip of a twin-jet carburetor and the impact of a truck collision.

It comes on only once a week, lasts for only 15 minutes, and is unsponsored. But it's the fourth most popular TV show in town, including the big network programs. It's called simply, "Traffic Court," and is an un-rehearsed re-enactment of sample cases which come before Traffic Court Judge John D. Watts.

The cases are presented quietly and factually. The characters—defendants, witnesses, victims—are, when possible, the actual people who were involved in the case.

The purpose of the program is to make this traffic-plagued city conscious of the perils and the causes of accidents. It has the backing of the Police Department, the City Council, the Michigan Bar Association, and the big auto manufacturers.

Here's a sample from a recent program:

A man was charged with drunk driving—drove his horse and wagon through a red light. The wagon shafts rammed through a parked car and the horse was killed.

The defendant claimed he couldn't make the horse stop, because his wife had put the harness on backwards. The wife backed her husband up. Unimpressed, Judge Watts sentenced the man to 10 days in jail and suspended his horse-driving license for a year.

A woman college graduate had too many drinks in a bar and got arrested for drunken driving. After attempting to fix the case, she was sentenced to 10 days, but was allowed to sit it out in Traffic Court, instead of in jail. Judge Watts often has people serve their sentences this way.

For 11 months Detroit police hunted a suspected sex offender. One day in his car he tried to pick up an 11-year-old girl.

The frightened girl told a schoolboy patrolman. He got the car's license number and reported the incident to police.

Half an hour later the suspect was in jail and admitted his guilt. He was sentenced to 90 days. Traffic Court and the TV show come into the act not only because the case appeared on the program, but because the young patrolman received an expensive watch for his action. It was one of many which Judge Watts had persuaded a wealthy auto dealer to give as prizes to young patrolmen.

A year and a half ago Judge Watts began turning all traffic "repeaters" over to a special Traffic Clinic for complete mental and physical examination.

Previous to this, traffic violators were turned over to the Traffic Clinic on a hit-or-miss basis. Now, all persons committing more than one offense are turned over, in addition to others suspected of mental or physical deficiencies.

The clinic, itself, a highly enlightened approach to traffic safety, handles about 850 traffic case referrals a year, in addition to 2500 cases from the criminal courts.

A staff of 24 psychologists, physicians and office workers under direction of Alan Canty give each complete mental and physical exams lasting more than five hours.

Particularly they look for "attitudinal" factors which make a person keep having traffic accidents. "A man with an inferiority complex because he doesn't make much money," Canty says, "is liable to compensate by being an aggressive bully behind the wheel."

One alarming fact uncovered by Canty and his staff is that about four per cent of the people they examine are insane and belong in mental institutions. "Others are so feeble-minded they can't figure out that three cars converging on a common point are going to hit," Canty says.

Canty and his staff make recommendations to the judges on each case before the judge passes sentence. Sometimes they will recommend the defendant be committed to a mental institution, sometimes that he visit a psychiatrist, sometimes that he be paroled.

Detroit, a city of 1,800,000, had more than 70 traffic deaths in the first three months of this year. Judge Watts says the biggest trouble right now is speeding.

Neither he nor Canty will estimate how much good the Traffic Court TV program and the Traffic Clinic are doing. "But," Judge Watts says, "we don't like to think what the situation would be without them."

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

VACATION PLANS—The buds are bursting and the birds are stirring and it is time to begin thinking about a vacation trip.

Touring with the family is one of those events happily approached and often too well planned to be enjoyable. There is first of all the decision of where to go. This leads to long hours of discussion.

Some members of the family hold out for a trip to a fishing camp, others want to "do something exciting this year" and suggest a visit to the city. The choice is between rest and recreation, sleep and sun or bright lights and action.

Once the decision is made there is certain to be some lingering disappointment on the part of those in the family circle who are outvoted. It is not the most harmonious way to start a vacation trip.

PACKING THEM IN—An automobile is not a Greyhound bus in size and there is the problem of packing all the family belongings into the allotted space—plus the family.

Somehow the accumulated luggage grows and grows. The trunk is filled to the point where it must be closed with crushing effect on its contents—which come out at the end of the day looking something like a flower pressed between an old copy of Pilgrim's Progress.

The family is packed into the auto with equally disastrous effect. Thermos bottles poke into ribs, cameras and packages are piled into the seats, and at the end of the first 100 miles there is a general feeling of claustrophobia.

After more miles and several days of travel the cargo is shaken down into better order and when somebody sits on the sack of cookies it brings laughter rather than concern. By this time a few crumbs are of minor consequence, the general discomfort is that great.

THE DRIVER'S SEAT—The driver always finds other members of the family willing and eager to assist him.

They study the map, wonder loudly whether they are on the right route, and discuss the possibility of sleeping in the car as night approaches.

In the city they are still more helpful, alternately advising the driver to stop or go ahead, turn left and right at the same time, and that he is heading the wrong way into a one-way street.

Under such circumstances one family nearly came to the parting of the ways. The driver slowed to the curb, stopped the car, opened the door and walked away without saying a word. He came back soon, having just strolled around the block, but it kept the others silent after that.

ROADSIDE TABLE—Most families harbor the illusion that it is fun to go on a picnic and they attempt to continue this practice while touring. That this is a popular custom is attested by the number of roadside picnic tables in Michigan, one of the leading tourist states in the nation.

On a long trip, however, the roadside meal becomes little more than a filling station routine. Sandwiches and ubiquitous weiners and beans and pop eventually arouse no enthusiasm, even among the youngsters.

As the vacation trip nears its end on the return trip there is only one consuming desire—to arrive home and enjoy its familiar comforts.

EXCITEMENT RECALLED—After the family has been home long enough to recuperate from the rigors of the long motor trip its members recover—in memory—the excitement and pleasure of the vacation tour.

There are friends to whom must be related the adventures encountered, who must be shown the snapshots taken, and suffer through the exhaustive business of tracing the route on a map of the U. S. S.

These friends must also hear whether or not the family car gave poor or good mileage, how many flat tires (or none) were changed, and how the baby in the family recovered from car sickness.

Fortunately the discomforts are soon forgotten and only the pleasant incidents are recalled. When another spring rolls around the family will be again busily engaged in planning another trip. For touring is a great American custom that started with pioneer caravans crossing the continent.

Never try to read a continued story in a magazine you pick up in the barbershop, says Joe Parks. The number containing the final chapter's always missing and you're in suspense the rest of your life.

So They Say

I am certainly never going to admit that the Eighth Army could be defeated. An American Army has never been defeated and never will be. Those are my sentiments.—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, retired Eighth Army commander.

It would be so much easier to cut Manhattan in two than Berlin.—West Berlin Mayor Ernst Reuter.

It would be a fatal mistake if responsible statesmen were to fall prey to the skillfully laid out maneuvers of the Soviet policy in Asia.—Edward Kardelj, Vice President of Yugoslavia.

I wish they (Chinese Communist troops) would come across (the Yellow Sea). They would be inviting disaster.—Eighth Army Commander Maxwell D. Taylor.

The ground commander can radio in (for air support) just like putting in a request for a taxi. And sometimes you don't get that taxi.—Lt. Gen. E. M. Almond, former commander, Tenth Army Corps.

I don't believe the defense appropriations are any sacred cow. I think they can be cut.—Sen. Styles Bridges (R., N. H.).

Corporal Lists 81 Red Captives

TOKYO (AP)—A Virginia corporal fresh from a North Korean prison camp today gave the names of 81 Allied troops he said were still in the camp.

Cpl. Everett W. Ritenour, 21, Woodstock, Va., said all of those named were in "pretty good shape" when he left Red Prison Camp No. 5 on the Yalu River.

A check of the official list of the prisoner list turned over to the United Nations Dec. 20, 1951, showed most of them to be on the list.

In Honolulu, a returned American prisoner told the Army he memorized the names of 50 U. S. soldiers listed as missing or dead but who actually were held in Red prison camps.

The Army confirmed the report but refused to release the repatriate's name or the names of his 50 fellow prisoners. A spokesman said disclosure of the names "might lead to reprisals against the men still in Communist hands."

The Army did not comment on Ritenour's list.

Publication of the list was permitted by the Army censor after he checked his headquarters.

Ritenour was among POWs tentatively docketed for return to the U. S. today or tomorrow.

Hatcher Critical Of School Work

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Noted Educator Dr. Harlan Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, spoke as a parent to criticize the nation's educational system before the Michigan Parent-Teacher Congress.

Dr. Hatcher said his feelings as a father compel him to complain about these shortcomings in the schools:

1. "Pupils today are not being taught the English language. I am convinced there would not be nearly as many college students failing in their studies if they were taught how to read, speak, write and understand our language."

2. "I think we have done a disservice to our children by taking from their training the process of learning by memory."

3. "The most notable lack in our schools today is, I think, disappearance of any emphasis on taking a particular task and carrying it through to completion."

Dr. Hatcher continued:

"I am not for going back to the old drillmaster type of education but I think schools should place more emphasis on fundamentals that will prepare pupils for later life and, more important, instill in them an inner discipline which they must have if they are to achieve any success in life."

On the credit side of the schools, Dr. Hatcher said he believes they have achieved spectacular success in fitting children into the group and giving them effective group experience.

French Priest Dives To Restore Church

PARIS (AP)—France has an unconventional Catholic priest, the Abbe Simon, known as "God's acrobat."

To get money to restore his church in the village of Saone in eastern France, the Abbe Simon goes around the country putting on a diving exhibition from a platform 105 feet high.

"I was scared to death the first time, but I threw myself off the platform with a prayer to Saint Theresa to protect me," said the Abbe, who earned $180 from the first jump, and since has made 12 others.

He picked up $57 from an unexpected quarter—from a woman who begged him to give up his dare-devil exploits.

Stop Potato Blights with dependable Du Pont

PARZATE®

Fungicide

Now you can stop early blight and late blight at their worst... and keep spray costs down while your yields go up. Du Pont "Parzate" does the job and does it economically. Use it all season long; it gives full protection in the field and reduces danger of blight rot in storage.

When you use "Parzate" for blight control, the leaves stay greener, and the vines grow more vigorously. That's because "Parzate" doesn't burn or stunt the crop while it controls disease. It's also the reason why you get higher yields and more No. 1 potatoes.

Manzate E, Du Pont's newest fungicide in the same dithiocarbamate family as "Parzate" is especially effective for control of potato and tomato diseases. On potatoes, it's ideal where early and late blight attack at the same time. Try "Manzate" this season on a test acreage.

Use "Parzate" liquid (nabam) for quick-mixing sprays.

Use "Parzate" dry (zineb) for dust mixtures or for sprays.

New Amplifier To Expand TV

By WAYNE OLIVER
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The dream of global television may be brought to reality by the new midget crystal amplifying devices called transistors, an industry engineer told broadcasters today.

Neal McNaughton, manager of engineering for the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, said use of transistors in cables might make it possible to transmit TV programs across water gaps too wide to be jumped by microwave radio beams.

"The answer," he said at the engineering conference of the association's annual convention, "lies in a submarine transistor cable using a transistor repeater unit—smaller than a cigarette—to augment microwave relays between the continents of the world."

Network transmission of TV programs over long distances now is handled by two methods—microwave radio beams relayed between hilltop or mountaintop towers averaging 25 miles apart, and underground coaxial cables. Neither method, however, will work over long water gaps.

Even though a microwave radio beam easily travels far enough to bridge the longest water gap necessary on a route connecting this country with Europe, it travels in a straight line and does not follow the earth's curvature.

The coaxial cable requires repeater or amplifier stations every few miles to strengthen the signal. Such cables could not be operated under the ocean for long distances because of the high electric current requirements of present type repeaters using vacuum tubes.

McNaughton explained that transistors, requiring only a small fraction as much current, might make it possible to develop underwater cables that would bridge the water gaps and connect with microwave facilities covering land portions of the route.

Dr. Martin Ryle of Cambridge, England, and Dr. Rudolph Minkowski of Mt. Wilson and Mt. Palomar Observatories in California described the evidence yesterday at meetings of the National Academy of Sciences and affiliated groups.

They mentioned no specific distances, but said some noises picked up by sensitive radio devices apparently stem from galaxies far beyond the vision range of the 200-inch Mt. Palomar telescope.

And that's a long way, for it has an estimated range of 5,900 billion billion miles.

California Girl, 12, Fakes Kidnap Story
MONTEBELLO, Calif. (AP)—A 12-year-old girl, object of an all-night search by police and hundreds of neighbors, walked into a Hollywood store yesterday and announced: "I've been abducted. I want to phone my mother."

But after checking her story, police decided Barbara Hellman has a vivid imagination.

She finally admitted she hadn't been kidnapped at all, but merely ran away. Police said a reprimand by a teacher and fear of parent wrath prompted her flight.

Next door, however, fire caused an estimated $8,000 damage to a frame building housing two electrical supply firms. Cause of the blaze was not known.

Marie Van Gasse Is The Bride Of Richard Juetten

Miss Marie Therese VanGasse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph VanGasse of Kingsford, and First Lieutenant Richard L. Juetten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Juetten of Escanaba, were married in a double ring ceremony April 25 at SS. Mary and Joseph Church in Iron Mountain by the Very Rev. A. C. Pellissier.

The ceremony was followed by a breakfast at the Knights of Columbus Hall and a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride wore a gown of imported white chintilly lace over satin. A chintilly lace tiara trimmed with pearls held her fingertip veil of nylon. Pearl earrings, the gift of her mother, completed her costume. She carried a white satin covered prayer book on which were white roses with satin marker ribbons and a pale blue rosary, the gift of the bridegroom's mother.

In Shades of Blue

A ballerina length gown of turquoise moire taffet was worn by Mrs. George Tutas, matron of honor, and identical gowns in shades of medium and light blue were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Joslyn Middlebrook of Sault Ste. Marie and Miss Julie Ann Williams of Newberry. Pink roses with multi-colored ribbons were on the covers of their prayer books and they also carried crystal rosaries, gifts of the bride. Their gowns and tiaras were similar to the bride's.

Mary Johnson, the flower girl, was dressed like the adult attendants in royal blue and she carried a white basket of mixed flowers. Raymond Juetten, a brother of the bridegroom, carried the rings on a white satin heart-shaped pillow trimmed with chintilly lace.

George Tutas served as best man and ushers were Gerald Harris of Houghton and Clarence DeBakker of Norway.

Will Live in Phoenix

The bride's mother wore a dusty pink crepe dress and blue accessories for her daughter's wedding. White carnations were in her corsage. Mrs. Juetten wore a navy blue two piece suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Following a honeymoon in the Copper Country the newlyweds will go to Phoenix, Ariz., where Lt. Juetten is stationed as an instructor in the Air Force.

The bride is a graduate of Kingsford High School and St. Joseph's School of Nursing in Hancock. Lt. Juetten, a graduate of Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton and

Communism Results More From Conditions Than Propaganda, Bolt Says

Communism is a result of conditions and not propaganda—its seeds grow only in soil that has been prepared for it—stated Don Bolt, of Brazil, Ind., in addressing the annual banquet meeting of the Top O' Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at the Elks Temple.

Speaking on the theme, "Latin America, the Powerful Unknown", Bolt said that Communism will not flourish unless conditions are right for it except on college campuses and among so-called intellectuals.

The speaker listed four conditions under which Communism takes root and grows—hunger, unemployment, the existence of a landless proletariat, and the existence of political ineptitude and corruption in government.

Cites Differences
Developing his theme, the speaker outlined reasons why Latin America is an "unknown" to North Americans and went on to show how the highly industrialized United States, is dependent on South Americans for numerous vital resources that keep manufacturers going.

He said that a basic hereditary difference exists between the peoples of the two continents, beginning with initial colonial settlement. This background of hereditary, he said, explains why Latin Americans and North Americans are different.

North Americans came from those parts of Europe where the influence of the Reformation and democratic tendencies were strong. The early northern settlers brought their wives and families with them, and carved out a predominantly white civilization where varied religious beliefs and racial backgrounds promoted growth of religious freedom and democratic systems.

Intermarried With Indians
Early settlers in Latin America, Bolt said, in the main did not bring their families and as a result intermarried with the native Indians, thereby creating a new and different race of temperamental, volatile people . . . but a people charming, able and capable of great progress.

Lacking in their hereditary background also were the Reformation influence and the tendency to democracy as North Americans know it. From Spain they also inherited a system where estates tended to grow larger rather than face diminution as happens under the Anglo-Saxon inheritance policies, the speaker stated. "Latin Americans inherited no varying ideas of religious worship because their church was transferred to South America intact", he said.

Many Revolutions
The speaker also said that when

South American countries revolted against Spain they fought for freedom, not democracy.

In adopting the political system of the United States, Bolt said, Latin America paid us a great tribute, but they adopted it in name only and have not really learned how ballots can be substituted for bullets.

Numerous revolutions, many of them bloodless, reveal the Latin American conception of changing government, he said.

The war with Japan taught the United States how dependent it is on foreign countries for many of its strategic needs, the speaker said, listing rubber, tin and other items as examples. He said the Jap attack lost the United States 2,879 items it needed.

South American countries, he pointed out, produce in vast abundance many of the raw materials required for North American mills.

U. S. Dependent Nation
Because so many of the resources of the United States have been used to feed expanding industry, the speaker stated, we are rapidly becoming a "dependent nation". Latin America, on the other hand, has a vast deposit of raw materials, like money in the bank, waiting to be developed.

In its "technical know-how" the United States has, far more than any nation on earth, the ability to develop these resources, Bolt said.

If this country adheres to a growing policy of "practical humanitarianism" in tapping these resources in South America, it can perform an outstanding service in gradually raising the standard of living of Latin Americans.

And if we do this, he concluded, we will eliminate almost entirely the chance for Communism to take root and flourish among our southern neighbors.

O. J. Schuster officiated as toastmaster at the banquet, which was attended by over 120 persons. Others who spoke were Carl Graves, chamber president; Fred H. Hahne, chairman of the chamber industrial committee, and Fred Heltman, chamber secretary.

3 English Girls, Touring North America, Stop Here For 'Tea' Yesterday Noon

Three English girls, speaking with a typical clipped British accent and wide-eyed at the immensity and beauty of North America, stopped in Manistique yesterday noon for "tea" while on a motor-cycle tour of Canada and the United States.

The girls, all from Birmingham, England, were Violet Riley, 33, a dancing teacher; Beryl Checkley, 20, a dressmaker, and June Poole, 31, a laboratory technician.

The girls, traveling on English-made BSA "motorbikes," left Southampton Oct. 13 last year following a swing through England and Scotland. They landed in Halifax, Nova Scotia, on Nov. 7 and toured through lower eastern Canada, reaching Detroit April 17. They worked for a while in Toronto during the severest part of the winter.

The girls spent Wednesday night in Newberry and left Manistique for Escanaba yesterday afternoon. Their itinerary will take them into western Canada at Winnipeg, across the western provinces to Vancouver, and then down the western coast of the United States to California.

To Travel 18 Months More
From California they plan to swing east again through the southern states to Florida and then up the coast to New York where they will take ship for home. They expect to spend another 18 months on the road before reaching New York.

A stop in Calgary to see the "stampede" is included on the trip west from Michigan. "The hospitality in the United States and Canada is overwhelming," said Violet Riley yesterday. "When we stop in a town we find it so hard to leave because people make a special effort to be nice to us."

The three girls had a taste of trout fishing in Frederick while motoring north from Detroit. "It was raining and snowing and we got no trout, but we lost a hook," the girls said.

So far on their American tour the English girls have been eating in restaurants and sleeping in rented quarters. "But we expect to use our tent and cooking equipment (they carry a primus stove) later on when the weather gets nicer," they said.

The girls said it was hard for them to comprehend the vastness of Canada and the United States. "We know in England that you're big but your size is really astounding as we motor for miles over your fine, straight highways. Back home people just can't visualize such vast distances. All England could be dropped in Lake Superior."

The wild, rugged beauty of eastern Canada and Michigan also was an impressive sight for the English visitors. "Michigan is simply breathtaking in its beauty and so different from our trim, cultivated scenery back home," they said.

Before touring Britain and North America the girls went on a tour of continental Europe in late 1951. Prior to their decision to come to Canada and the United States they had toyed with the idea of touring Africa. "But the roads there aren't good, and the same is true of Asia and South America," they stated.

New Worship Places Listed

Because of fire and water damage to St. Francis de Sales Church in the blaze Wednesday morning, church services hereafter will be held at the Oak theater and in the parish school, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. F. M. Scheringer, pastor.

Harrison Smith, of Marquette, fire marshal, inspected the damaged structure Wednesday afternoon and again yesterday. An insurance adjuster also was expected to examine the church building yesterday.

Regardless of whether they declare the building safe or unsafe to use for further religious services, the Rev. Scheringer said yesterday that it was "very unlikely that we will use the building again." Most of the windows are broken, the floors are warped, and holes also were cut in the floor by firemen in order to get water on burning basement timbers.

Facilities of the Oak theater were offered to the parish by J. L. LeDuc, owner. Services will be held there on Sundays at 8, 10 and 11:30 a. m.

Services scheduled at the parish school hall were listed as follows by the Rev. Scheringer:

Daily masses at 8 and 8:30 a. m. Six o'clock mass on Sundays and Holy Days.

Confessions at 4 and 7 Saturdays. Confessions daily before masses. Sorrowful Mother Novena on Fridays privately.

During May, daily May devotions at 7:45 a. m.

There will be no Sunday morning confessions, the pastor said.

Chicago Girl Is Recent Bride Of Fred Hastings Jr.

Miss Marion Hazel Bacon, of Chicago, Ill., daughter of Mrs. Carl Carver, of Central Lake, and Norman Bacon, of Chicago, became the bride of Fred Hastings Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hastings, 200 N. 1st St., at a ceremony performed in the parsonage of the First Methodist Church Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Edgar M. Smith officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a black and white checked suit with black accessories. She wore a white rose corsage.

Miss Carol Hastings, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a yellow and grey checked suit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Russell Williams served as best man.

Mrs. Carver attended her daughter's wedding in a navy pink street length dress. Mrs. Hastings, the groom's mother, wore a teal blue street length dress. Both mothers wore corsages of red roses.

Wedding supper was served at the groom's home following the ceremony for the immediate families and wedding party. A reception was held in the evening at 431 N. Houghton Ave. for 100 guests.

The table was centered with a tiered wedding cake. The couple left later on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. They will make their home at 200 N. 1st St.

The bride attended schools in Central Lake and Chicago. The groom attended local schools.

Out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. Carl Carver and sons, Robert and Thomas, of Central Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Scoggins and son, James, of Detroit; and Mr. and Mrs. Lady Hastings, of Engadine.

Pastor Thanks Those Who Aided At Church Fire Here Wednesday

Appreciation to those who aided in combatting the fire at St. Francis de Sales Church Wednesday morning was expressed yesterday by the Rev. F. M. Scheringer, pastor. The Rev. Scheringer said: "The Rev. George Pernaski and I wish to express our appreciation and that of the entire congregation of St. Francis de Sales Church for the splendid and effective cooperation given in combatting the fire which damaged the church Wednesday morning."

"Had it not been for the immediate aid given, the fire would undoubtedly have destroyed the rectory as well."

"We are especially grateful to Fire Chief Elmer Boal and his regular fire department crew; to the members of the Manistique Volunteer Department; the Michigan State Police of the local post; our city police and the Gladstone Fire Department for responding to the appeal."

"It was a help, too, in our loss to see the fine assistance rendered to us by many of our fellow citizens who are not members of our church. Our appreciation for their cooperative efforts will be lasting and enduring."

Sobels In Crash Near New Orleans

The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Sobel and family, who are on a tour of the south, were involved in an auto accident 115 miles north of New Orleans, according to a letter received from them yesterday by the Joseph Paulis.

Mrs. Sobel sustained a fracture of two small foot bones in the crash. The letter, written Monday, said they were stopping in New Orleans with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilke, former local residents, while the car is being repaired.

The accident occurred on a one-way rural bridge when an approaching car braked and skidded into the Sobel machine as it was leaving the narrow span.

State Starts Suit Against Pile Of Dirt

SEATTLE (P) — The State of Washington objects to some dirty work at the crossroads and has gone to court to remove it.

A complaint filed in Superior Court is labeled: "State of Washington versus one pile of dirt, rock and gravel."

It seems someone left a pile of dirt, rock and gravel on the Kent-Auburn Road near here. A sign was placed on the pile demanding that it vacate the spot within 10 days. The pile paid no attention.

The court now is asked to declare the pile illegal and instruct the sheriff to get rid of it.

COLISEUM'S CAPACITY
The Coliseum at Rome accommodated 100,000 spectators, 87,000 of whom were seated. Its arena measured 192 feet from side to side, and 285 feet from end to end.

Profits Of American Business Increased

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — American business appears to be piling up 10 per cent more profits than a year ago—and about as much as it did two years ago.

The first 386 companies to report net income after taxes for the first three months of this year show their combined profits 10 per cent higher than the first quarter of 1952—which was about that much below the 1951 period.

Nearly three-fourths of the reporting companies are running ahead of last year. A year ago two-thirds of the companies were running behind their 1951 earnings. This year 101 companies dropped behind—10 operated in the red, the same number as a year ago.

Airlines Going Good
The best group showings this year are by the airlines, aircraft and retail—each has profits three times as large as a year ago.

Others that are doing much better than a year ago are: appliances, up 45 per cent; food, up 34 per cent; beverages, up 22 per cent; textiles and cement, each up 20 per cent; and motors up 19 per cent.

Groups falling behind include: coal, down 59 per cent; drugs, down 7 per cent; and oil, down 3 per cent.

The reports of 386 companies, of course, is only a sampling. Final figures may change the picture. And the accounting is confused because some companies figure their excess profits tax on a full year basis, and others on a half-year basis, expecting it to lapse in June. If EPT expires on schedule, some company earnings will look even brighter.

Wait And See
The good showing of most corporations reflects the generally booming production rate of the economy—now at a peacetime record high.

Along with the gain in earnings has come pleasant news for many stockholders. Dividend payments so far this year are running about five per cent ahead of this time a year ago.

Some executives look for good times for their companies throughout the year.

A large number of them have limited their optimism to the first half of the year, with a wait-and-see attitude toward the closing months.

Youth Rally On Saturday Night
A Youth rally is to be held on Saturday evening at 6 at the Bark River Methodist Church. Rev. Joseph Dickson, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church of Escanaba will be the speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Erick Apelgren are eagerly awaiting Wednesday, May 20, when they will leave for a visit to their homeland, Sweden.

The trip will be made by air. They will fly from Chicago to New York on the morning of the 20th and board a Scandinavian Airlines plane at Idlewild airport shortly after noon the same day. Arrival at Copenhagen is scheduled for 8 the following evening.

It will be the first airplane flight for both Mr. and Mrs. Apelgren and Mr. Apelgren's first visit to his homeland since coming to America.

While in their homeland they will visit Mr. Apelgren's father who will be 88 years old this month and also a brother and sister of Mrs. Apelgren.

Mrs. Apelgren came from the northern part of Sweden while Mr. Apelgren is a native of southern Sweden.

They will be gone about two months, returning to Chicago on July 17.

Eisenhower Books Five June Speeches

WASHINGTON (P) — President Eisenhower is tentatively scheduled to make five speeches away from Washington from June 10 through June 14—with some fishing in between.

The White House said the fishing probably would be in South Dakota's Black Hills midway in this speaking schedule:

June 10 at Minneapolis; June 11 at Garrison Dam, N. D.; June 11 at Rapid City, S. D.; June 14 at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N. H., and June 14 at Oyster Bay, Long Island, N. Y.

Sweat Has Its Uses In Modern Industry

NEW YORK (P) — Because perspiration is a strong compound, powerful enough to remove paint and even etch the hardest metals, it has found a place in modern industry.

Corrosive resistance of new products is tested sometimes by having people handle them over and over. One firm has stepped up this process by producing synthetic perspiration in barrel lots.

The solution is composed of valeric acid, butyric acid, acetic acid and salt.

Would Amend Bill To Aid Lazy Fishermen

TOPEKA, Kas. (P) — The Kansas Legislature was debating a fisheries bill requiring unattended trot lines to be marked with tags giving the name, address and fishing license number of the owner.

Up rose lanky Rep. Marvin Cox to offer an amendment — adding the owner's telephone number on the tag.

"This," Cox drawled, "would make it easier for the fish to crawl out on the bank, phone the fisherman and report being caught."

IN KOREA — Pfc. Lloyd Oberg (middle), son of Mrs. Ellen T. Oberg, Gladstone, is in Korea where since last November he has been cooking for the Air Force. He has been in service for about a year and declares their mess is noted as the best in Korea.

Canada Starts Work On Power Project

WASHINGTON (P) — Chairman Robert Saunders of the Ontario Hydroelectric Commission announced Canada has begun preliminary work on its half of the 500 million dollar St. Lawrence River power project.

Saunders spoke at the opening of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Association's second annual Heartland conference.

He said work on the project is underway even though the United States has yet to say who will construct the American half of the development.

New York state, favored by Canada as the American partner, has applied to the Federal Power Commission for a license to participate in the project. Public Power and Water Co., of Trenton, N. J., a private corporation, also seeks the license.

Referring to the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway — a companion project to the power development — Saunders said the Canadian government is ready and anxious to proceed with the seaway "as soon as the go ahead signal has been given for the power project."

Canada has announced it will build the seaway without the United States joining in the project.

Listed to participate in the discussions were Sens. Taft (R-Ohio), Wiley (R-Wis.), Thye (R-Minn.) and Potter (R-Mich.), former Vice President Alben W. Barkley, and Gov. Williams of Michigan.

Dropo Fails To Lead Detroit In Hitting

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT (AP)—Failure of big Walt Dropo to hit consistently has hurt the Detroit Tigers.
The records show that the "Moose" from Moosup, Conn., is second in the American League in runs batted in with 12. That's supposed to be the true gauge of clutch hitting.
In Dropo's case, however, the figures are a bit misleading. He knocked in five of those runs in one game, the only time he actually "took charge." The other seven have come in dribs and drabs, not enough to spark the team.
The Tigers acquired Dropo because of his long-ball strength. He didn't let them down last year, hitting 33 homers after joining the team for the last 138 games.
So the Tigers expected more of the same this year. But to date, the six-foot-five, 220-pound first baseman has produced only one home run in 15 games. Furthermore, he has hit only two doubles and one triple—hardly an impressive mark for a cleanup hitter.

Compare these statistics with the National League leaders. Ed Matthews of the Boston Braves has six homers and Roy Campanella of the Brooklyn Dodgers has knocked in 22 runs.
Dropo, who said he expected to have his biggest year this season, hasn't been able to raise his batting average over the .232 mark. Currently he's hitting .188 and he fell as low as .091 at one point.
Dropo says he likes to hit in Briggs Stadium.

He Likes Park
"This is a good park for me," he said. "And I'm sure glad to get away from that left field wall in Boston. When we played at home, all of us were shooting for it. That was only natural. We changed our styles to take advantage of the short fence. But when we went on the road, all those long flies were just ours."

Dropo's best day in Detroit was against Cleveland in the second game of the 1953 season. He belted a double and triple, knocking in five runs. That made the Tiger brass quite happy, as you could expect.

Since then, however, the Moose hasn't been able to get going.
Dropo's best day in Detroit was against Cleveland in the second game of the 1953 season. He belted a double and triple, knocking in five runs. That made the Tiger brass quite happy, as you could expect.

Corbett, veteran righthander, hurled and belted Michigan to a 6-1 victory over Illinois last Saturday.

All three of Minnesota's games last week were cancelled by cold and rain. Today's contest is at Michigan.

In other single games today, Northwestern 2-0 is at Wisconsin 3-0; Iowa 0-0 at Michigan State 0-3; Ohio State 3-1 at Purdue 0-2 and Illinois 1-2 at Indiana 0-2.

A full round of doubleheaders is slated Saturday with Ohio State at Indiana, Illinois at Purdue, Minnesota at Michigan State, Iowa at Michigan and Northwestern at Wisconsin.

Illinois, defending champion, edged Michigan State 2-1 last week behind Clive Follimer's five hit pitching but was defeated the next day 6-1 and 3-2 by Michigan.

It's New Month, Tigers Hope For Change In Luck

DETROIT (AP)—Overheard in Briggs Stadium:
It's a new month and the Tigers hope it means a change for the better. . . But they need not feel too badly about their April exploits. . . Just consider the 1920 Detroit team. . . It lost its first 13 games. . . But it didn't finish last.

After yesterday's game against the A's was rained out, some joker said: "Well, at least the Tigers are headed in the right direction—they didn't lose."

Cardinals Throw Scare Into Leading Phillies

By BEN PHILEGAR
Associated Press Sportswriter
Not so long ago the Philadelphia Phillies were the hottest team in major leagues.

Today Manager Steve O'Neill's charges are casting anxious glances over their shoulders in the direction of the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

The change in Philadelphia's fortunes came when the St. Louis Cardinals came a visiting Tuesday. The Phils were riding the crest of an eight game winning streak and boasted a 2½ lead in the National League race.

Play 1 - 1 Tie
The Cards swept the first two games and last night battled the Quakers to a 1-1 standoff in a game that was called after five innings because of rain. While the Cards were mopping up the Phils, the Dodgers extended their winning streak to four and pulled to within a half game of the groggy Phils.

Brooklyn won their fourth straight during the afternoon as they trimmed Cincinnati, 7-4.
The New York Giants snapped a three game losing streak with a 1-0 squeaker over Milwaukee and Pittsburgh trimmed Chicago, 4-2, in other National League action.

In the American League the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox, 6-1, and the St. Louis Browns defeated Washington, 3-1. Philadelphia's game at Detroit was rained out while Boston and Cleveland weren't scheduled.

Question Homer
The Yankees, who got soaked $450 in fines for their part in the melee in St. Louis Tuesday night, found themselves involved in another small ruckus in Chicago but escaped with their pocketbooks unscathed.

Mickey Mantle has been hitting his home runs so far that they've left no doubt, but at Comiskey Park in the fourth inning he belted one which the White Sox questioned. The ball bounced back on the field and umpire Jim Duffy waved Mantle around. When Chicago manager Paul Richards befooled too long about the decision, Duffy waved him out of the park.

The hitting star of the contest was young Bill Renna who homered, tripled and singled in four trips. The husky righthander was playing left field for Gene Woodling, who was benched with inflamed eyes.

Elliott Is Leader

Bob Elliott, an unemployed third baseman when spring training began, took over the runs batted in lead in the American League last night with a three-run homer, all the runs the Browns needed to beat Washington. Elliott, who now has driven home 13 tallies, showed up at the Browns' camp in March looking for a job. After a quick trial he was signed on the recommendation of manager Marty Mation and he now is playing third regularly.

Brooklyn spotted Cincinnati two runs in the first inning and then caught up fast as Duke Snider homered in the Dodge half of the first with Peeewe Reese on base. Brooklyn went ahead to stay in the second inning with four more runs including a two run blast into the lower left field seats by Reese.

Homers Pay Off

The other two National League contests were settled by do or die efforts in the last of the ninth inning.

At Pittsburgh rookie Frank Thomas picked the perfect time to hit his second home run of the year. With the score tied, 2-2, one out and Ralph Kiner on base in the last of the ninth, Thomas lofted a Paul Minner pitch over the left field score board to end the game.

In New York, Bobby Thomson hit a ninth inning home run to break up the game with Milwaukee.

Trojan Baseball Team Will Open On Saturday

The St. Joe Trojans are slated to open the 1953 high school baseball season with a pair of weekend games, but Coach Tom St. Germain is casting an anxious eye at the overcast skies prevalent the past several days.

On tap for Saturday afternoon is a home stand against Coach Eldon R. Keil's Gladstone Braves at the Escanaba city diamond at 2.

Sunday the Trojans will play host to Coach Paul Winkinkner's Bark River Broncos at 1.

It will also be the opener for Gladstone, but Bark River has one game under its belt, a 20-3 victory over Perkins two days ago.

Officials for the Gladstone game will be Bob L'Houillier and Don Nyquist.

St. Germain today named southpaw Dick Cass to start against the Braves Saturday. Bill Maycunich will be behind the plate, Gary Guertin at first base, Bob Sendenburgh at second, Bob Rodman at third, Billy Lancour at short, Tom Brien in left field, Dick Bryson in center and either Mike Gomerac or Isadore Derkos in right.

Against Bark River Sunday afternoon St. Germain gives the starting mound nod to youthful Gary Paler, a freshman righthander. Remainder of the lineup will be much the same as on Saturday.

Anzaione Quits As Powers Coach

POWERS—Announcement was made today that Jerry Anzaione, Powers-Spalding High School football coach, has resigned his position and will leave the teaching field.

Anzaione began coaching football at Powers four years ago, introducing the sport to the school for the first time. Building up football each year, Anzaione developed an undefeated team two years ago and had a total of 24 boys out for the squad the last season. There were only 12 candidates his first year.

Anzaione will be succeeded by Marvin Ropele, assistant coach at Powers. Ropele played four years of football at Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette. He starred for Norway High School teams before entering college.

Eskymos Rained Out, Teams Are Scheduled For Weekend Action

The Escanaba Eskymo baseball opener against Marquette slated yesterday afternoon was called off because of rain.

Escanaba athletic teams are scheduled for weekend competition in two sports. The track and field squad is due at Marquette for the season's regular opening event and the golf team is set to entertain the Menominee linksters in the season opener. Both events will depend on the weather.

In This Corner With Ray Crandall

Escanaba's small-fry baseball players steal a leaf from the major league book this weekend when Little League tryouts are scheduled to get under way at Royce Park diamond. . . All Little League candidates get a crack at the spring tryouts during which managers will get a look at the ability of the Little League aspirants. The first call for tryouts is for 11-12 year olds at Royce Park beginning at 9:30. . . Two afternoon sessions, at 1 and 3, will be held for the boys 10 and under.

Karl Dickson, a leading figure in organization of Little League baseball in this city, has furnished us with a roundup of information on team prospects and player dope for the coming season. . . Here's Karl's roundup:

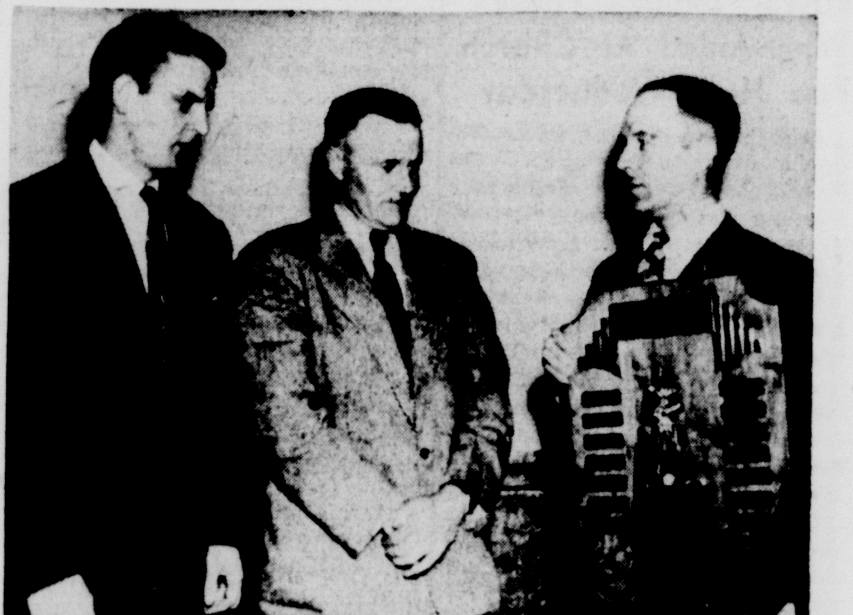

"Despite the loss of such standouts as Frank Katrinski, Mike Mileski and Bob Stropich, skipper Frank Burke of the defending champion Kiwanis team figures they are still the club to beat. . . In Gene Sequin he has the league's outstanding pitcher and with a capable field general in Bobby Dagenais to guide the younger players he feels that his team will rapidly develop into a pennant contender."

"Over in the Rotary camp where Lawrence Erickson has been quietly building a team for two years there is a definite feeling that this is THE year. Erickson has only to point to the 1952 senior-undergrad game which saw the junior team positions manned almost entirely by Rotary players. He says: 'We were short on batting punch last year, but one year will make a big difference with this team.'"

"Nobody is selling baseball-wise Jim Fitzpatrick's team short. . . The Lions finished strong last year, and big things are anticipated from Barry and Dave Andrews who form the league's only brother battery. . . Fitz substituted his players more frequently than most managers and as a result he can field an experienced boy at every position."

"In the St. Joe Booster camp there is an absence of pennant talk. With only the star veteran Johnny Wellman to build around, a tough job lies ahead for Elmer Walker who takes over as manager this year. Despite their dismal 1952 finish, five regulars graduated and have left gaping holes in the outfield, infield and pitching staff. . . Not discouraged, Walker goes on record saying: 'I look for better balance throughout the league this year, but our boys will have to hustle. . . We'll buy, trade, swap or lease anyone if it will strengthen the team. After all we only have to win three games to improve on last year's record.'"

There you have a capsule view of Escanaba's Little League organization as it shapes up this spring. . . It's the only program of its kind in the Upper Peninsula and one of which the city and fans can be extremely proud. . . A lot of work goes into making it run and we'd like to doff our lid again to the sponsors, officers and friends of the kids who take part in the organization.

COACHES HONORED—Rudy Brandstrom, left, coach of the Manistique Emeralds, and Ishpeming coach Clairmont Watson, center, were honored recently as coaches of the co-champions of the Great Lakes Conference basketball circuit. The past season marked the first in history that the GL conference ended in a tie. Manistique and Ishpeming both had nine straight conference victories and did not play each other. At the right is Howard Berkel of Munising, Great Lakes Conference commissioner.

Chairman McConnell (R-Pa.) of the House Labor Committee for Senate and House committees to work together closely on the job of writing amendments to the law.

Taft indicated it would not be necessary for Secretary of Labor Hurkin to testify, although Democratic members of the committee yesterday formally asked the full committee to invite him to present administration views. That motion is scheduled for action next week.

As for the proposal to remove local utilities and construction employers from all coverage of the federal law, Taft said the problem involved was a definition of interstate commerce.

He said it had never been his intention that building trades unions should be covered by the law, although in certain instances, he conceded, it might be necessary.

"Why should we concentrate in Washington power over a lot of things that belong in the states?" Taft asked at yesterday's hearing.

Taft wouldn't predict when the Senate Labor Committee might have a bill ready for Senate consideration.

State Senate Begins 19-Day Race To Get Michigan Out Of Red

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan Senate today began a 19-day race against time to draft an entirely new business income tax to pull the state out of the red.

The upper chamber faced the task after the House flatly refused to extend the life of the 1953 session into mid-June to provide more time for the tax issue solution.

Groggy after 12 hours of debate, maneuvering and indecision, the Senate Republican caucus last night forced from its rebellious mated at more than a million dollars.

Several large structures on the base were flattened. The swelling black funnel appeared shortly after 6 p. m. when most of the 9,000 residents of Warner Robins were preparing for dinner.

It smashed 30 two-unit apartments in a housing project near the base. Brick buildings in the town and on the base were torn apart.

Heavy damage was reported in the industrial area of the military installation. Newsmen were not permitted to enter that section.

Hail Like Golf Balls

Wind gusts in the Warner Robins area were estimated at 100 miles an hour. Heavy rain and hailstones—some as large as golf balls—fell in the Macon area. The normally placid Ocmulgee River became a raging torrent within hours and was dangerously near flood stage.

Two highways leading from Macon were closed by the state patrol. Water covered the Walnut Creek bridge on the outskirts of the city.

Charles Barrentine, 4, of the Dry Branch community in Twiggs County, died when his father's car was hurled nearly 75 yards from the highway. The twister had torn the roof from the Barrentine home and demolished a church next door when Barrentine fled his family of four into the family car to flee. The other members of the family were hospitalized in Macon.

Mrs. Kline Heads PTA Of Ford River Mills School

Mrs. Donald Kline was re-elected president of the Ford River Mills School P. T. A. last night at the annual election of officers. Other officers re-elected for the coming year are Mrs. Clarence Nordquist, 1st vice president; Mrs. William Couillard, secretary; and Mrs. Joseph Wisneski, treasurer.

An entertaining program was presented by the school children. Songs sung by the intermediate grades as taught over the radio by the "May Festival of Songs" program were "Fisher Maiden" and "Lonesome Valley", and songs sung by the primary room were "Little Brown Brother" and "I Think When I Read that Sweet Story".

To achieve this end, the GOP caucus struck a "compromise" with Senator George N. Higgins (R-Ferdale) chairman of the taxation committee which has blocked all major new taxes.

As a result, the chamber votes today on Higgins' package of $20,000,000 in so-called nuisance tax increases.

Under the "compromise" the chamber also gave Higgins possession of Gov. Williams' corporation profits tax bill, which was passed by the House along with the Cloon bill in an attempt to squeeze Higgins into submission.

The "compromise" halted a bitter, three-day debate over Higgins' tax package, but left each senator free to vote as he pleased on the Higgins bill.

Tax Cuts Likely To Be Delayed By Lopsided Budget

tions and Taft, the Senate Republican leader, significantly withheld any predictions on this score.

But the Ohio Senator said in an interview he doubts that any firm estimates will be given Congress in the present session on federal spending, which he said "will determine tax policy and whether there is a deficit."

Many Republicans promised a balanced budget and reduced levies in last year's political campaign, but Eisenhower has said he made no pledge to cut taxes.

Eisenhower announced he will ask Congress to vote $12 billion dollars less than the $72,900,000,000 in new appropriations former President Truman had recommended for the coming year.

But Eisenhower declined to say how much of that would be represented in actual savings at the Treasury's pay-out window, although Rep. Short (R-Mo) previously had estimated the amount at $4,400,000,000.

It is the Treasury's actual income and outgo—not what Congress appropriates for this and future years—that determines whether the budget is balanced. The government can spend more than is appropriated because more than 100 billions voted in previous years has not yet been paid out.

Noting that Truman had predicted the nation will go into the red $9,900,000,000 in the new fiscal year, Eisenhower said it just wouldn't be possible to wipe this out because of commitments already made—largely for military equipment.

any hostile forces to interfere with the peaceful and victorious advance of the Soviet people toward its great goal—communism.

Cold War Deplorable

Bulgarian opened his speech by declaring that "friendship among peace-loving peoples was growing." Just before speaking, he inspected troops drawn up in Red Square and nearby streets.

Formations of jet planes flew overhead as the military parade got underway.

Bulgarian's statement came as Pravda, the Soviet Communist party's newspaper, called for an armistice "in the cold war which is ruining all people."

"If an armistice is possible in the hot war which is tearing Korea apart, then everyone understands there is also possible an armistice in the cold war which is ruining all peoples, an armistice which must be followed by peace."

Deer Charges Into Auto Near Nahma

A deer charged two Rock drivers about 3:20 yesterday morning on US-241 just east of Nahma, slamming into the sides of their cars and causing a wreck, the drivers told Michigan State Police.

Troopers said a car driven by Clarence L. Nelson, Rock was towing another with Ernest Nelson, Rock at the wheel. As they approached the Sturgeon River bridge a deer ran out toward the first vehicle. The driver swerved, lost control of his car and side-swiped the bridge.

Out of control the two cars bounced along the bridge and jackknifed at the west end. Clarence Nelson told state police he was going about 45 when the accident occurred. Troopers estimated damage to the tow-car at $500, to the other car at $50. Neither driver was hurt.

State police don't know what happened to the deer.

Mrs. Wm. Donahey Honored By Chicago Advertising Club

GRAND MARAIS—Mrs. William Donahey, who has been a Grand Marais summer resident since 1926 was recently chosen by an all male jury over 30 other outstanding Chicagoans, by the Women's Advertising Club of Chicago as their 1953 Woman of Distinction. She received her title at the Morrison hotel's Terrace casino and was crowned with a chapeau of French design and given an engraved gold bracelet set with pearls. She also appeared on several radio and TV shows plus luncheons and a big Press breakfast.

Mrs. Donahey was chosen for this title not only on her journalistic achievements but upon the physical handicaps she overcame in reaching for success. At the age of 15 she fought off cancer and tuberculosis after the cancer cost her her right arm. She mastered typewriting with her left hand so that she could continue writing. A few years ago she successfully fought off another bout with cancer.

Mrs. Donahey is the founder of the 26 year old Matrix club of Chicago and has served as president of the Writers Guild of Chicago and of the Illinois Woman's Press association. She has also won distinction as a cook as well as a cook book author and has been listed for more than 25 years in "Who's Who in America."

Mr. and Mrs. Donahey have been coming to Grand Marais since 1926, when the Reid-Murdock Co., by whom Mr. Donahey was employed built them the Pickle Barrel or Teeny Weenie House. After spending 12 summers in the barrel, which was always open to the public the Donaheys built their own log cabin, very near the original site of the Pickle Barrel, which was moved to town. The Donaheys continue to come every summer and the townspeople are proud to have two such distinguished writers among them. Mr. Donahey is also a well-known artist-author.
